

Workshop on research methodology at CUJ

HT Correspondent

■ htjarkhand@hindustantimes.com

RANCHI: The Department of Contemporary and Tribal Customary Law of the Central University of Jharkhand here conducted a ten-day 'National Workshop on Research Methodology' for doctoral scholars in social sciences that commenced on Wednesday.

The workshop was attended by thirty national participants including one international participant from Kenya. There were also local participants from various universities from within the state. It was a fully funded programme by Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR), New Delhi.

The participants during the workshop had access to various resource persons who deliberated on various issues related to social science research. There were eminent scholars from various universities including the reputed ones like Jamia Millia Islamia, National Institute of Technology-Rourkela, Lucknow University, Utkal University etc. Participants learned various tools and techniques used in Social Science Research.

"The workshop was a great success in inculcating training to the doctoral scholars in social science research. The Central University of Jharkhand from its inception has remained stalwart in conducting such programmes, incorporating both the participants and scholars who are into research and academics," said university course director Ashok Nimesh.

THE PARTICIPANTS DURING THE WORKSHOP HAD ACCESS TO VARIOUS RESOURCE PERSONS WHO DELIBERATED ON VARIOUS ISSUES RELATED TO SOCIAL SCIENCE RESEARCH.